

ABSTRACT

This project deals with the partial replacement of cement by fly ash and coarse aggregate. Cement is becoming not economical for construction work and the transportation cost will also be high in future. So this study deals with the replacement of cement with fly ash. To increase the concrete strength, fly ash is included along with silica and alumina. Now the strength between ordinary concrete and the fly ash replaced concrete is compared.