

Abstract

This study evaluates the level of customer satisfaction with New India Assurance, focusing on the company's insurance products, claim processing efficiency, customer service, and overall customer experience. By analyzing customer feedback and service quality, the research aims to identify areas where the company excels and where improvements are necessary. The findings will offer recommendations to enhance customer satisfaction and loyalty, contributing to the company's competitive position in the insurance industry.